Previous shows have had as many as thirty-five bands on during the one night, a superhuman feat of cooperation and coordination, and made possible due to two stages. Other venues have included the Railway Club for many years, the ANZA Club a few times and a Legion or two.

Located in the heart of East Vancouver, Faceplant is both a full service facility for as well as a community of musicians. The warehouse and back parking lot have been transformed over the years and now feature a couple of very nice practice rooms and amazing garden, an ongoing project of Brent Williams, the proprietor. Brent's background in theatre and event tech and general handyman skills are evident throughout.

"We're all extremely enthusiastic about this year's landmark - Faceplant hopes to host an assortment of bands and artists at least as eclectic as any seen previously, especially now that contributors span over 20 years of historical attachment to Faceplant and past FaceFests. FaceFest is an opportunity for new clients to showcase their bands and for the old-timers to come on back and show some love. We could name-drop, but a glance at the previous nineteen years of posters speaks for itself. (www.faceplantlive.com/facefest.html). We're anticipating one of the best FaceFests ever! "
